Société Générale has already significantly reduced its risk profile and will deliver growth at lower risk
TOMORROW’S ENVIRONMENT

NEW REGULATORY STANDARDS FOR CAPITAL & LIQUIDITY

- Capital
  - Basel 3 will lead to significantly higher capital levels
  - Current debate around:
    - Final level of Core Tier 1 required, including SIFI surcharge
    - Lack of consistency on RWAs calculation

- Risk of tilted playing field

- Liquidity
  - Potential unintended consequences on the economy, at a time of greater fiscal consolidation
  - EU accounts for 25% of world GDP but would bear 60% of the LCR & NSFR liquidity shortfalls
  - Insufficient capacity in Europe to absorb both Government and banks’ long term funding requirements

- Need for adjustment and progressive implementation of new liquidity rules

In Q3-10, we announced a Basel 3 Core Tier 1 target of 8.5% in 2013, based on conservative mitigation efforts.

Since then, we identified measures on legacy assets securing 30 bps gain of Core Tier 1:
- Cracking of 3 CDO of RMBS (completed)
- Sales of RMBS and CMBS (to be done by 2013)

Group RWAs were flat in Q4-10 and Q1-11 providing for a ~10bps improvement in 2013 Core Tier 1 vs. initial expectation.

9%+ fully-loaded Basel 3 Core Tier 1 ratio in 2013 is achievable with:
- Further optimisation of legacy assets capital consumption
- Arbitrages within Group portfolio of activities
- RWA optimisation & control

Capacity to exceed 9% Core Tier 1 under Basel 3 in 2013
